

Puzzle Designer Guidelines & Disclaimer

Welcome to the Puzzle Designer community! As a designer, you have the freedom to create challenging, creative, and engaging puzzles for players to discover throughout the labyrinth. To ensure the platform remains fun, fair, and safe for everyone, please review the guidelines and information below.

1. Code of Conduct & Content Standards

- Creative Freedom with Boundaries: You are free to design imaginative riddles, logic puzzles, or share creative works. However, content must never be abusive, hate-speaking, discriminatory, sexually explicit, or intentionally malicious.
- Fair Play: Keep the experience enjoyable for players of all backgrounds. Avoid overly obscure logic traps that rely on pure guesswork without proper clues.

2. Ratings, Automated Moderation & Removal

- Community Feedback (Likes & Dislikes): Players can rate your puzzles with thumbs up or thumbs down.
- Automated Thresholds: To keep the quality of the labyrinth high, the system monitors overall ratings. Puzzles that accumulate an excessive amount of dislikes (exceeding a set community threshold) will be automatically flagged and removed from active rotation to protect the player experience.
- Abuse Reporting: Players have access to an in-game "Report Offensive Content" button on every puzzle. Any report is logged in our administrative database for immediate review.

3. Tips & Tricks for Designers

- Flexible Submissions (Not Just Q&A): Your submissions do not strictly have to be a standard question-and-answer puzzle. If you want to share a piece of writing, such as a poem or a short story, you can use the puzzle space creatively.
 - Tip: Ensure you provide the answer clearly at the end of your text (for example, instructing the player: "In one word, the answer is [word]") so they can successfully open the door and continue their journey. In such cases, you can set penalties and timers to zero.
- The "Article/Prefix" Trick: If an answer involves an article (like "A bottle" or "The key"), it can sometimes confuse players who only type the noun. To prevent frustration, phrase your question carefully—for instance: "In one word, A [____]"—so players immediately know the article is pre-filled and they only need to supply the main noun.
- Utilize Hints & Penalties (Optional): While hints are entirely optional, they are strongly recommended for more complex or intricate riddles. Adding Hint 1 and Hint 2 will make your contribution more enjoyable for a large amount of players. Set reasonable timers and penalties to balance challenge with fun.

4. Disclaimer & Liability

- Third-Party Content: Puzzles, riddles, and text entries within the labyrinth are created and submitted by independent designers. The platform operators and administrators are not responsible or liable for the specific content, views, or answers provided by third-party designers.
- Commitment to Safety (Notice & Takedown): While we do not pre-screen every single submission, we are fully committed to a safe environment. We actively monitor incoming abuse reports and reserve the right to remove any violating content, disable designer accounts, and block malicious entries immediately upon discovery.
